Garners Beach is a secluded beach just north of Mission Beach where a limited amount of fortunate property owners share this pristine beach and conservation area. Famous Prime Minister Harold Holt once owned a holiday home right next door to this site, there's some wonderful Australian history here and it's a special piece of real estate indeed.

This magnificent site, sits on the top of the headland and is just under 3000m2 in size. Entrance is via a registered easement through lush rainforest. Once you reach the block, you'll see that the driveway has been cleared as well as a small building envelope. There is underground mains power available approximately half way along the driveway or you may prefer to build and be totally self-sufficient.

Those seeking solace in a rainforest setting, who want to build their creative beach shack will love this one!
