This house just feels like home, introducing 12 Admiralty Street at South Mission Beach. Our downsizing sellers are on the move and we invite you to inspect this well presented home, in one of the best elevated streets in South Mission Beach!

With an enticing street appeal, the house sits on top of the block and gently slopes to the east where you'll experience wonderful breezes and can see the top of Dunk Island.

Drive straight down the stoned driveway, there's an open block carport with automatic panel lift door that matches in with the house design. You'll love the well established and looked after gardens. Great privacy from the neighbours and small families will love all that lush open grass space.

There's an outdoor deck on 2 sides of the house, the one on the front is a recent addition, as too is the kitchen. The floor plan was reconfigured and now includes a lovely new, quality kitchen that's been moved to a much better position for open plan living.

Great natural light fills the living area, and the polished timber floorboards throughout (excluding the wet areas), do look fantastic!
